Welcome to the second MIGSAA Newsletter, keeping you informed about our students, research and all the other things that happen at MIGSAA.

MIGSAA Launch

It was standing room only in the Newhaven Lecture Theatre at the official MIGSAA launch!

The event, which took place on Wednesday 25 February, featured some wonderful speakers. Special guests Sir Tam Dalyell and Allan Colquhoun, Chair of the MIGSAA Advisory Board, were among those who heard presentations from eminent mathematicians Keith Ball and David Abrahams, as well as director Prof Tony Carbery and some of our own students. All addressed an audience comprised of mathematicians and scientists from within and without the university community.

MIGSAA would like to thank all those who attended and helped to make the event such a success.

Chair for the day Sir Tim O'Shea, Principal of the University of Edinburgh; the reception; Prof Tony Carbery speaks with MIGSAA students.

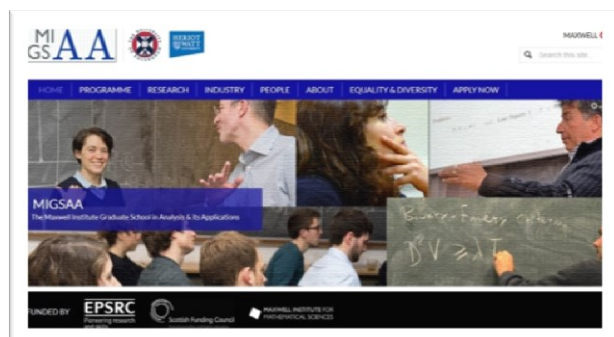

MIGSAA Advisory Board

The first meeting of the MIGSAA Advisory Board immediately preceded the launch event and yielded some very constructive outcomes. At this time industry is underrepresented on the board and MIGSAA is very keen to expand our relationships with industrial partners.

New website launched!

Back in January MIGSAA launched a new website, which you can visit at:
<http://www.maxwell.ac.uk/migsaa>

The website is the best way to stay abreast of developments at MIGSAA as well as being essential to our recruitment efforts.

Recruiting the 2015 Cohort

At this time we have allocated almost all places available for entry in 2015.. 8 male and 3 female applicants have firmly accepted offers made to join us this September; while most are UK-residents in line with EPSRC requirements we are also pleased to be welcoming 3 EU and 2 overseas students to our cohort this year. All are talented mathematicians and we are pleased they have chosen to join us here in Edinburgh.

Thanks for reading,
Tony Carbery
